

Code of Ethics in Research

In general the research projects submitted to the universities/and/or funding authorities need to follow the rules and regulation prescribed by the concerned universities/and/or funding authorities.

In particular, the researchers undertaking research activity in the campus are required to adhere to the following code of conduct.

- The topic of research should be original and unique.
- The research should not be on an existing research work.
- The research work should be carried out throughout the stipulated period.
- To the extent possible submission should be in time.
- Collection, analysis and drawing inferences should be through proper course of action.
- Research work should be forwarded by the respective Head of the Department
- Thesis/Dissertation should be available in the college library/department library for reference to all.
- The viva voce examination should be conducted strictly as per the guidelines prescribed.
- Each publication has to be intimated to the Research Cell and to be updated in the database by the author.
- Values are to be inculcated to carryout fair research activities.

Mechanism for detecting Plagiarism

For UG and PG the topic of the dissertation is selected by the oral concurrence of the guide.

- For submitting the M.Phil dissertation and Ph.D thesis the certificate on Plagiarism must be obtained from the parent university.
- It is decided that from 2018-19 onwards the respective departments should use free online Plagiarism detection tools to curb Plagiarism.
