Proposal for National Webinar

The Department of English (Aided) is planning to organise a National Webinar on “Cultural Studies” which is the current topic and one of the most focused areas in research. Cultural studies is a relatively new interdisciplinary field of study. It represents the study of the different forces from which the whole of humankind construct their daily lives. It aims to examine its subject matter in terms of cultural practices and their relation to power. Its constant goal is to expose power relationships and examine how these relationships influence and shape cultural practices.

In Cultural Studies, representation is a key concept and denotes a language in which all objects and relationships get defined, a language related to issues of class, power and ideology. It views everyday life as fragmented, multiple, where meanings are hybridized and contested.

The Department is taking a very great initiative of organising a webinar on the current topic which needs more discourse and discussion. The Webinar aims to reach all the teaching and learning fraternity in the field who in turn can take the knowledge to a longer way which forms the success of the webinar.
